[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN]

New York Nov 28 —[illegible] Bishop Sharp [illegible] Utah Central [illegible] Brigham Young had [illegible] Mormon institution [illegible] the last [illegible] the lines of our new roads we seek the alliances of settlers and capitalists [illegible] trouble and we do not interfere with them We [illegible] There are of course [illegible] blessing [illegible] and a smatterer [illegible] bodies always trying to create a sensation and always attribute their failure [illegible] Mormonism but [illegible] among [illegible] about two-thirds of the people are Mormons [illegible] the younger people [illegible] the faith [illegible] are constantly bringing in [illegible] gration Two thousand immigrants arrived at Salt Lake this season from Europe The quorum of twelve which became the head of the church at the death of Brigham Young still retain their power Their functions as apostles have been in no way abridged by the election of John Taylor as prophet or by two councils chosen to act with him He further said that Utah was anxious to be admitted as a state and added not [illegible] is polygamy a part of the Mormon faith, but it is obligatory Those who say otherwise are not true Mormons or do not know what they are talking of Some made their consciences easy with only one wife on one pretext or another and doubtless in some individual cases polygamy is improvident or perhaps impossible It is not compulsory as there are no penalties but it is obligatory a part of our religious faith and it cannot be counted out Since the decision of the Reynolds case there has perhaps been a comparative decrease in polygamy but that is not due to the decision any more than to the fact that Mormon girls are devotees of style and fashion as much as New York girls and young men find it somewhat harder to support more than one family than their fathers and grandfathers did Before the Reynolds decision was made we did not believe that the anti-polygamy law of 1862 was constitutional and paid no attention to it but, of course now it is law and it has a certain effect. He says that the church has in Italy 16 pastors 18 lay preachers 1800 communicants 2085 children in schools under 21 teachers and 17 students in a theological seminary which is located within 400 yards of the Vatican at Rome and two professors There are now five different Protestant evangelizing agencies in Italy, the Baptist American Episcopalian Wesleyan English Waldensians and the Free Church of Italy the last two being mainly supported by Presbyterians and Congregationalists

RAILWAY AFFAIRS.

Progress of the Denver and Rio Grande Road

Colorado Springs Col Nov 27 —At a meeting of the Denver and Rio Grande stockholders President Palmer in his report gave the following interesting points 636 miles of road are now completed and it is expected that 907 miles will be open in April unless delayed by snow The last named mileage would have been in operation already but for the impossibility of retaining enough laborers winter having approached All men required are now obtainable and 4000 or 5000 men and 3000 animals are now working on the company's extension

A Menace from Jay Gould.

New York Nov 27 —The Tribune Jay Gould's paper says If the Central Pacific does not unite with the Union Pacific no more Western railroads will be built but if it does unite then the Burlington road will be built through to the Pacific coast and another will be built by the Atchison company to the Pacific.

The Railroad Combination and Complications

The Tribune says that although all the parties interested by their denials have [illegible] at rest the story of consolidation of the Vanderbilt roads with the Chicago Burlington & Quincy and Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe railroads, yet the two latter powerful combinations are perfecting arrangements which will shortly result in a union This will make a strong team The Burlington is ready to extend its line to Nebraska to Denver, and it is also prepared to build from Denver to Ogden If the Central Pacific does not unite with the Union Pacific no further western roads will be built by the Burlington system but if it does then the Boston owners of the Burlington [illegible] build a line straight through to the Pacific coast The Atchison road has a line straight to Denver, and the combination will then have two routes to the Pacific coast from Chicago

Another route will be by the Atchison Kansas City Atlantic and Pacific on the 35th parallel to the coast and besides this there is an outlet via Mexico to the Gulf of California, which makes a great saving for travel to Japan, Australia and South America The Atchison also has a through route to the City of Mexico It is well established that this combination will be effected in the near future

The Inter Ocean's New York special says whether the Pacific railroads be consolidated under one management is a question said to be involved in great doubt No progress in the matter has been made Since the Tribune announced the general plan proposed the Union has been placed in the hands of one of the Boston directors of the company for consideration Referring to this fact, a director of the company said to-day You know a large part of our stock is held in Boston and much depends upon the decision of the Boston stockholders They are very solid and will go very slow The meeting of the company's stockholders will be held in the first week in December and it is said to be improbable that any action will be taken before that time

CHINA AND JAPAN.

Political Affairs—Russia's Probable Demands on China—General Items

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

San Francisco Nov 27 —The City of Tokio arrived to-day She sailed from Hong Kong October 30th, and brings news from the date

Affairs at Peking are still unsettled Different parties at the capital are still anxious about the future of the country Of the nature and extent of the demands to be made by Russia it is believed that Tsung Li Yamen is still ignorant That territory will be asked for, in addition to a large money indemnity is generally conceded Corea and Formosa are mentioned in this connection

A report that the Chinese are desirous of settling matters by arbitration is perhaps correct, but it is stated that Russia will allow of no foreign intervention

The captain and some of the officers of a British man of war while recently steaming up the Yang tse Kiang had occasion to land near Ching Kiang, and were surrounded by natives and pelted with stones

General Japanese News.

Yokohama Nov 9 —The 3d inst being the Mikado's birthday, was observed as a general holiday throughout the empire A review of the Tokio garrison was held by his majesty and in the evening a reception took place at Enriokwan.

Admiral Lessofsky, commander-in-chief of Russia's land and sea forces in the east, with 12 or 13 ships of war is shortly expected here from Vladivostock and the Japanese government is making extensive preparations for a cordial reception of the admiral and his officers to whom it has been determined that every hospitality shall be offered during their sojourn in Yokohama

It is stated in Japanese papers that the Chinese minister at Tokio will shortly return to China No reasons for his departure are given

Hanabusa Japanese minister to Corea will leave for his post on the 15th inst

In a letter recently received from Corea it is stated that leading members of the late embassy to Japan held a great council in the capital on the 6th of October at which upwards of eighty high dignitaries of state were present The subject discussed was the desirability or otherwise of restricting present intercourse between Japan and Corea The result of the meeting is unknown

Thomas [illegible] an American was accidentally shot and killed on the 5th inst while examining a gun He was buried with Masonic rites

Politically everything is quiet The continued low rate at which paper currency is quoted has a paralyzing effect on trade, and it is stated that the government has finally determined to contract a foreign loan and is making inquiries as to terms and conditions upon which money can be had

It is practically certain that ex Senator Stanley Matthews will succeed Justice Swayne and it is for this reason that he has withdrawn from the contest for the Ohio senatorship.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

Government has charge of the transmission of intelligence through the mails, and has frequently been urged to take charge of the transmission of intelligence by telegraph. In other words, it has been urged to establish the postal telegraph system. In order to enter this new field of business it is proposed that government shall buy existing telegraph lines at appraised valuation, extend lines to other parts as the service may require, and operate the entire telegraphic business of the country. It is claimed that this would give low rates, that such low rates would cause the telegraph to be generally used, and that the business would thus soon become self-supporting, or perhaps pay an actual profit to the government while the people and the press would obtain far better accommodations than now.

The subject is a very wide one. A few years ago it was examined exhaustively by a special committee of congress, under the direction of Gardiner J. Hubbard, leading champion of the proposition to establish the system in the United States; but congress was not convinced of the sufficiency of the arguments, and so far has not attempted to establish the postal telegraph. Since then the proposition has been broached only or mainly in its relations to the press. For the present we only refer to this branch of the subject. It is obvious of course that the proposition is part of the scheme of "paternal government," one of the outgrowths of the theory that government ought to care for its people in all important respects, and do their business or provide them with means of doing it. We even find those who are wont to express alarm about the centralizing tendencies of the times insisting upon this proposition to enlarge the functions of government to the extent of absorbing one of the largest and most important branches of business pursued hitherto solely by private enterprise. The policy that would cause the government to push more and more into the domain occupied by private enterprise is one not likely to meet with increased favor as it is more widely discussed. Hence the demand for the postal telegraph system is manifestly weaker now than it was some time ago, when the investigation by the congressional committee drew general attention to the subject. It is now seldom urged except by journals whose business does not enable them to take news reports by telegraph. These seem to think that if the postal telegraph were established they would be at once enabled to compete with journals of the associated press in furnishing the news.

As to the political propriety and policy of introducing the postal telegraph system, members of the associated press may be divided in opinion; but there is no difference among them as to the conviction that nothing else could make the power of the associated press so invincible and secure. And the reason is very plain. The associated press is a co-operative society of newspapers, which includes at least ninety-five per cent. of all the journals in the country which are financially able to bear their share of the cost. All the members of the association are entitled to all the news collected by its agents in all quarters. But they must make their own terms for its transmission by telegraph. Now if the government will step in and make those terms and bring about the great reduction of rates which it is the declared object of the postal telegraph to accomplish, the members of the associated press will gain far more by it than any other class of persons who have occasion to use the telegraph. They will gain more because they are the largest customers, have the widest system of gathering news, and could bring at once their whole immense co-operative force to bear in collection of news to be transmitted at cheap rates. Observe that the postal telegraph would give the associated press just as low rates as others could obtain, while its facilities for gathering news would give it, under a system of cheap telegraphy, greater advantages and more marked superiority than ever. Journals in the membership of the associated press would get far more full and complete reports than others would be able to obtain, or could afford to take. Nothing could be more to their advantage than reduction of the cost of transmitting news. The money thus saved they would at once employ in securing more rapid and extended reports, thus making competition outside of the associated press even more difficult than now. The only competition which this great news association has to-day lives by and because of discriminating telegraphic rates against it. When it is made certain that no one else can get better terms through rival lines or by other means than are allowed the associated press, then the organization, the experience and the established connections of this association will give it a vantage ground which can never be shaken. Under government control of the telegraph there would be assurance of equal and exact rates for all press matter; and whatever was saved to the associated press by reduction of telegraphic rates would give it just that much more to expend in extending its agencies, improving its class of agents and producing more perfect results; and thus the associated press combination would still stand, united and invincible, against the assaults of those who shriek to congress for aid in the effort to cause bad news currents to run up hill. Every member of the associated press who has just comprehension of the newspaper business fully understands that the postal telegraph would give the association and all the journals connected with it additional advantages by making competition still more difficult. It is as plain as any possible business proposition.

HUMILITY FROM ADVERSITY.

Senator Beck of Kentucky, in a dispatch printed to-day informs us, is good enough to say that "the democratic party during the coming session of congress will pay strict attention to business so as to render an extra session needless, leaving responsibility for delay or obstruction with the republicans."

This indicates a greatly improved frame of mind in the democratic party. It is one more pleasing illustration of the sweet uses of adversity. The wisdom it evinces comes rather late, but that is the usual way with wisdom dearly bought. Had this wisdom come to the democratic party two years ago, that party might now be master of the situation.

Just what the Kentucky senator says it will not do now, it did two years ago. In control of congress it was expected to "pay strict attention to business," and so "render an extra session needless." But instead of pursuing this plain and sensible policy it refused important appropriations, and forced the president to call an extra session to secure means for carrying on the government. The southern brigadiers were delirious with joy. They had "captured the capitol," they entertained no doubt of winning the presidency, and expected to dictate the political policy of the country. With their allies of the northern democracy they made a concerted attack on the national election laws; they threatened to starve the government unless the president consented to repeal of this legislation, and declared this to be the issue on which they would go to the country in the presidential election. Their assurance passed all bounds of moderation. It grew into aggressive insolence and proclaimed its intention not to stop till it had wiped from the statute book the last vestige of war legislation. Again and again the appropriations were denied, unless coupled with repeal of the laws which were made the object of this attack. Congress refused to perform its legitimate duties and devoted itself chiefly to a prolonged effort to reestablish the principles of the defunct southern confederacy.

It didn't pay. Under pretense of protecting the liberties of the people from "the army at the polls"—a most ridiculous sham—this party had exhibited a spirit which brought down upon it the displeasure of the country. The late defeat was the consequence of a policy directly the opposite of that which the Kentucky senator says his party will pursue now. There will be no more bragging on the part of the brigadiers about having "captured the capitol." Nothing more will be said about "wiping out war legislation." No further attempt will be made to introduce confederate theories into the government under pretense of "saving the country from a military despotism." Senator Beck talks like a man who realizes that his party has had enough of extra sessions and things. Humility is the proper fruit of adversity. The toad, it used to be said, though ugly and venomous, wears yet a precious jewel in his head. Who knows but this party, so long considered past all hope, may yet learn something? But perhaps it would be well to wait a little longer. One swallow does not make a summer.

Alexander H. Stephens of Georgia has been re-elected to congress by 11,341 votes, against 16 scattering. The presidential vote in his district was 10,386 for Hancock and 4,600 for Garfield. In two counties Garfield did not receive a vote. Still, Stephens is conciliatory—willing to accept any administration Garfield may be pleased to accord. He says Hancock was defeated by mismanagement, "the whole plan of the democratic campaign being a rush for the hog trough."

It is reported that St. Julien's profits for the season are $28,000. This shows that no man except a railroad president, or merchant, backed by immense capital, or a wealthy mine owner, can compete with a horse that is nimble on his feet.

David Davis, weighing 350 pounds, has held the balance of power in the senate for two years past. Now Gen. Mahone, weighing only 108 pounds, considers himself heavy enough to take that position.

Pressure of advertisements compels us to hold over for a few days several articles already in type. This will explain to those who had expected them the cause of their non-appearance.

In Ohio Sherman has the inside track for the senate. In Indiana Harrison has it. In both it is "natural selection," as each is regarded as the paramount man of his state.

CITY.

[illegible] Two [illegible] named Baker and Lord both of whom are well known in this city left here on the [illegible] boat a few days ago bound for the Sound By the time they reached Kalama they were [illegible] able to purchase tickets on the outgoing train Baker and Lord adopted the tramp dodge and attempted to steal a ride Before proceeding far the conductor discovered them and had them put off. It seems that the action of the officials irritated them the bounce and these hoodlums angry and they determined to have revenge [illegible] the most deliberate [illegible] manner possible They gathered up a number of ties and piled them on the track Several large rocks were added which formed a barricade sufficient to wreck a heavy train After having completed their diabolical work these scoundrels walked off down the track. Shortly a train came dashing along at a rapid rate of speed. Fortunately the engineer who was on the lookout saw the obstruction just in time to call for brakes. The train was brought to a halt just before reaching the barricade and a fearful accident averted. Baker and Lord were suspected as the guilty parties and a special locomotive was dispatched after them They were overtaken near Carl's station arrested and brought back to Kalama and put in jail The defendants were to have a preliminary examination at Kalama on Saturday The evidence is said to be conclusive against these parties

Price picked them up looked at them a minute and in his most dignified way said "I don't want to sell my watch Take your money back," and he passed back four of the pieces McAnnalla demanded the other twenty but Price denied having it Officer Henline was called in and asked Price to give up the money but he refused and again denied that he had taken it He was then taken to police headquarters where McAnnalla stated the case Capt [illegible] who was in charge asked Price to return the coin He answered that he had not been possessor of a $20 gold piece for months and denied [illegible] Grittmacher began to search and finding the piece in the watch pocket but before taking it from him gave Price another opportunity to answer it be making such request. Price who maintained his characteristic dignity when in [illegible] indignantly repelled the charge of theft and was obliged to whom at last Grittmacher took the coin from him.

He lived in a [illegible] near the Western Oregon railroad track beyond the [illegible] His home was a hut built of rough boards and was furnished [illegible] two stools some tin dishes [illegible] and a fireplace cut into the bank of earth forming [illegible] wall of the shanty. He was subject to frequent attacks of asthma and had told neighbors that he was afraid to lie down at night for fear of choking to death. But few men connected with the army of the United States whose lots have from time to time been cast among the people of this land have left [illegible] by more sincere regrets than [illegible] Bailey [illegible] past [illegible] his [illegible] Washington [illegible] department and perhaps will [illegible] Oregon and Washington territory [illegible] himself by [illegible] upright course of [illegible] his [illegible] genial [illegible] his sojourn [illegible] and Van[illegible]

AMUSEMENTS.

CLOSE OF THE EMELIE MELVILLE OPERA SEASON —"Bohemian Girl" was repeated Saturday afternoon and evening—on the former occasion to an overflowing house many having to be turned away and in the evening to an average audience Both performances were slightly better than that of Friday night. Mr. Kinross was suffering from a severe cold and in the evening was obliged to omit his solo "The Heart Bowed Down" much to the disappointment of the auditors

The season financially was the most successful ever known in Portland—fourteen evening performances to exceptionally large audiences and four matinees to jammed houses The paucity of amusements for the past year, and no prospects of any in the near future contributed much to the great attendance but the season demonstrated that theatregoers of this city will patronize liberally any amusements of musical nature which are worthy of patronage The features of the season which will be pleasantly remembered are Miss Melville's Josephine Serpolette Justine Favart and "Arline" Miss Plaisted's Maria Francesca [illegible] maine and Fiametta Mr Hatch's Grenicheux and Thaddeus Mr Freeman's excellent acting in all the operas in which he took part and the choruses in everything except the Bohemian Girl The orchestra will be remembered for want of leadership and insufficient rehearsal on opening nights The soloists of the company have expressed themselves as being highly gratified with their very kind receptions at the hands of Portland's audiences—the appreciation of their good efforts and leniency towards shortcomings

Sentinel Horace Rice of Florence Rock precinct was in Jacksonville one day last week proving up his homestead. He is 77 years of age is an original Vermonter Green mountaineer and lives by himself His home is some 60 miles north of Jacksonville and he considers his place half way to Fort Klamath He says the old military road to Crater Lake and Fort Klamath has been traveled a good deal the past season and he believes if the road were traveled a little more it could be kept open all winter He was told there were now six inches of snow on the road crossing the Cascades at the low divide

On Saturday night the 20th inst, the stage coming north with J's Mason as driver was stopped by a robber on the road between Cottonwood and Coles The robber demanded the express box and the registered mail bag There being an upgrade in the road where the stage was stopped the horses commenced backing and the driver told the robber that as the team wouldn't stand at this point he would drive a short distance ahead to a flat, to which proposition the robber consented. Upon reaching the so-called flat the driver whipped up his horses and left the highwayman in the rear But the robber had already secured one of the mail bags which lay on top of the express and contained all the registered packages for Jacksonville and other points The packages were mostly of the bulky order among them a $400 package of postage stamps for the Jacksonville office The mail sack was found cut open and left on the road side but the next day when it was found none of its contents seemed to be missing The southern bound stage picked it up returning it to Yreka.

There has been no special movement in the wheat market since our last report. Shippers are not under any pressure to fill engagements already made, and as the disengaged tonnage is practically nothing business has been rather dull. Quotations $1 45 to $1 50, with most transactions at $1 47½.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The movement in general markets during the past week has been satisfactory notwithstanding the occurrence of thanksgiving day. Prices as a general thing have ruled firm and in some instances are higher.

Wheat—Dull and easier, bull speculation meeting with a check, while foreign markets are lower or easier.

Barley—Good demand; firmly held.

Pork—Neglected.

Lard—Active, higher.

Rio Coffee—Rather quiet, steady.

Refined Sugars—Good demand, prices firm at an advance of ⅛@¼ on hards and ⅛@⅜ on softs.

Teas—Quiet; offerings are full and well assorted and prices easy throughout. At a tea auction sale Moyune Young Hyson sold easier, but other grades about the same as last week.

Syrups—Fair demand, prices steady. There has been some inquiry for California and shipments of 1451 kegs and 60 bbls have been made overland.

Hops—Continue in good demand, chiefly for export to London. Prices remain very firm.

Foreign fruits—Fairly except for raisins which are only in jobbing demand at last prices.

Currants—Firm at 5¾@6c.

Prunes—Good demand, new scarce and firm at 6@6½c.

Apples—Good demand and in light supply with a strong market.

Quicksilver—Dull, 42c.

Borax—Fairly active; prices steady.

Hides—Very firm, with an upward tendency in prices.

Leather—Steady; demand firm.

Turpentine—Better demand; half higher; closing firm.

Rosin—Quiet and nominal.

Petroleum—Very quiet.

Crude oils—Continue quiet.

Pig iron—Very moderate demand at $24 50@25 50 for No. 1.

Lead—Dull, weak at 4¾c for common.

Tin plates—Dull, unchanged.

Hardware—Has met light demand, but prices have maintained a firm tone.

Nails—Dull, nominal.

Wool—Retains its firmness and is in good demand. Holders show no disposition to force the market. Sales include 79,000 pounds of spring California at 27@34c; 170,000 pounds fall do. at 12@25c.

THE EASTERN FREIGHT MARKET.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Threatening weather has had the effect of making matters a little more quiet at the wharves of California clippers. Still both of them have done very good business. Offerings are very fair and there is a disposition on the part of shippers to make up for the dullness of the past summer. Rates continue steady, and although there is no disposition to cut, yet neither of the lines will allow any load of freight to escape them. The supply of tonnage is somewhat reduced and there are not many vessels pointing this way. Owners are rather firm in their views. No new business has been done for any of our lines for the past few days.

Steamer freights are moderately active. Next departure has iron and canned goods. Overland shippers have received notice from the general freight agent of the Union Pacific that contracts will be renewed on the same basis as those of 1870, and guaranteeing them that the rate will be as low as may be effected with any air line road. In the meantime it may be noted that the Union Pacific has not been able to renew its contract with trunk lines to Chicago.

Freights at Boston are fairly active and the Emily F. Whitney is doing a good business. Railroad freights there have, as at this point, fallen off, shipments amounting only to 1145 packages, including 540 packages of fish.

At Philadelphia the freight market is not very lively. Still it is possible that the Eliza McNeill will get away by the end of the month.

An ecumenical conference of the Methodist Episcopal church and its branches will meet in London in September 1881. This conference has been talked of in the churches of the denomination for several years, but no decided action was taken until last May, when, at the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in Cincinnati, a plan was drawn up and agreed to by the representatives of the Methodist Episcopal church and the different branches in the United States. The denomination numbers over 4,000,000 actual communicants and a Methodist population of about 15,000,000. There are numerous branches in Europe and this country, and they will all be represented in the conference. The members of the conference will number 400, one half of whom will represent British and continental Methodism, and one half the churches in the United States and Canada. The conference will meet in City Road chapel, which was the first church of the Methodists. For many years John Wesley preached there, and his pulpit is still shown to Methodist travelers who visit England's capital.

Sarah—Where did you buy that elegant stem winder gold watch? Lily—I bought it of Uncle Myers, 151 First street.

LITERARY AND PERSONAL.

Nearly 77,000 octavo pages will be taken up with the "Records of War," about to be published by the government.

The collection of Mr. Ruskin's scattered letters will shortly appear under the characteristic title of "Arrows of the Chase."

Lord Beaconsfield is revising his former productions and writing a new novel. The title of the new novel is "Endymion." An "edition de luxe" of his former works is to be published next year, and will include, for the first time, the famous "Letters of Runnymede."

General Loring, the ex-confederate, who for several years held a high command in the Egyptian army, has been delivering in Florida a series of interesting lectures on his experiences in Egypt.

Count von Moltke has just passed his eighty-first birthday, which was celebrated by visits from the Imperial family, the king of Bavaria, and other German sovereigns. The old soldier is said to be marvelously active.

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe has added three new stories to that quaint volume of Yankee acuteness and humor called "Sam Lawson's Fireside Stories," which Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have issued in a new and attractive edition.

Mr. Thomas Hardy is writing a story for Harper's Magazine which will be called "A Laodicean;" with reference to the "Angel of the Laodiceans," mentioned in Revelation iii. 14, that was neither "hot nor cold," but lukewarm and indifferent in religion.

Miss Braddon (Mrs. Maxwell), the novelist, who has a shrewd Scotchman for a husband, lives in elegant style in a London suburb, and keeps riding horses, fine carriages and park hounds. There is a large double family of children. She is a good housekeeper.

Mr. Swinburne, in prefacing his translation in the original metre of the Grand Chorus of Birds from Aristophanes, made for the Athenæum, describes the Greek poet as "the holy divine humorist, in whose incomparable genius the highest qualities of Rabelais were fused and harmonized with the supremest gifts of Shelley."

The private papers of Marshal Berthier, the Great Napoleon's eccentric chief-of-staff, have been found in Berlin in a chest that had not been disturbed for 70 years. Among the contents are several letters from Napoleon, and the summons to Saxony in October, 1806. The more important of the papers will shortly be published.

The Count de Moltke, the Danish minister in France, has one of the finest hotels in Paris, and the best equipped carriages. The Countess de Moltke adores showy and expensive clothing, which, as she is a very pretty woman, suits her. In society she bears the sobriquet of "the golden pheasant," owing to the fact that her plumage is usually brilliant.

The author of that popular book in its day, "The Schonberg Cotta Family," which has not yet ceased to exert the influence of a practical Christian spirit, has written a new book called "Women of Christendom." Dodd, Mead & Co. have it in press. This, like all of Mrs. Elizabeth Charles' books, is written with a religious purpose. It contains sketches of the women of the Acts of the Apostles and of the early Christian church, and much space is devoted to those women of more recent times who have engaged in philanthropic work. Mrs. Charles resides at Hampstead, a fashionable suburb of London.

The Fool of the Family.

[Washington Special in the Chicago Times, 10th.]

Sherman's letter has made some stir, but it has been nearly equaled by the report of an interview with the irrepressible Fred Grant, who always indulges in big-boy talk about Papa Grant at the wrong time and place. The young lieutenant, who by chance usurps the place of a lieutenant colonel, is represented as saying that Papa Grant would not take a place in Garfield's cabinet and that he would regard an offer of a foreign mission as an affront. This foolish-boy talk about Papa Grant is a subject of chaff among politicians, who had been saying all along that Grant has become too ambitious to think of any place again but the White House. Grant's friends here say that this boy-talk misrepresents the old "gentleman;" that he is an ardent worker in the cause, and that he is only too anxious to show the American people how humble and modest he really is by working contentedly in some subordinate capacity.

A Consequence of Southern Society.

[From the New York Herald.]

It was impossible to convince northern independent voters that the south ought to be "solid." Not the most ingenious or the most eloquent democratic speaker was able to give to northern voters a convincing reason for the solidity of the south; hence the northern independents, on whose votes the election turned, and who, under other circumstances, would have preferred a democratic administration—as many of them openly declared—went over in a body to the republican ticket. We do not hesitate to say that they did wisely. While there is a "solid south" there will be a solid north. Why not? If sentimental politics are to rule in one section, why shall they not rule in the other? Or, to speak more accurately, if sentimental politics do rule in one section it is inevitable that they will rule in the other also.

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast,

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

such as SPERMATORRHEA or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the chronic diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a dislike to call upon the proper physician in time, from a false modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaints and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.
